

Letter of recommendation

To whom it may concern,

I arrived to Geneva with my family at the beginning of October 2010 to work at the University of Geneva. When we visited Geneva the previous May we met with Monica Barzilay to discuss our relocation. Already then it was clear that Monica knows the relocation business well. She answered all of our questions and gave us a lot of useful information even before we signed for her services, and without any charge.

Our arrival to Geneva was delayed for a couple of months, in that time Monica kept in touch by e-mail and phone calls, ready to start looking for apartments.

When we arrived to Geneva, Monica and her team immediately started the search for apartments which was even more difficult than usual in our case, since we needed an apartment big enough for a family, but within a small budget. Therefore the task was not easy, and we had to visit many apartments until we finally got one. Once we had to move, Monica arranged for the move very quickly and was always making sure that everything goes well.

Barzilay Services were efficiently and intensively looking for apartments, with great care and understanding of our situation. Monica and her team took care of all the paperwork and the contact with many different agencies, which saved us an enormous amount of time and energy. Monica was highly motivated and full of energy and optimism that helped us through this period of time.

I would like to deeply thank Monica Barzilay and her team, Carole and Fabio, for their enormous help while we were relocating to Geneva. It is good to have someone you can trust to handle these important relocation issues with efficiency and care, and I would highly recommend 'Barzilay Services' to those who are interested in relocating to Geneva.

Dr. Michal Lieberman-Lazarovich,

Geneva, February 22, 2011

Post-doctoral research assistant,

Department of Plant Biology,

University of Geneva